

Support for Marijuana Policy Reform

The public is far ahead of most elected officials in support of marijuana policy reform. A supermajority of Americans — 68% according to Gallup — support making marijuana legal. Support isn't limited to specific states, ages, parties, or regions. Gallup found majority or plurality support among all age ranges and political parties, while the public research firm Civiq found majority support in every state for making marijuana legal. Yet only 18 U.S. states have legalized marijuana. Meanwhile, support for medical cannabis is close to universal, although 14 states continue to criminalize medical cannabis patients.

Medical Marijuana

- Support for allowing medical cannabis is off the charts. A March 2019 Quinnipiac University poll found that 93% of Americans support “allowing adults to legally use marijuana for medical purposes if their doctor prescribes it.”
- Support is exceptionally high among all ages and parties. Quinnipiac found 93% of Americans aged 50-64 and 91% of Americans aged 65 and older support medical cannabis. Support reached 99% for those 18-34. The poll found 86% of Republicans, 96% of independents, and 96% of Democrats support allowing medical cannabis.
- Since 1996, 36 states have adopted medical cannabis laws. Eighteen of the laws were adopted by voters, including in some of the most conservative states in the nation: Arkansas (53%, 2016), North Dakota (64%, 2016), Oklahoma (57%, 2018), Utah (53%, 2018), and South Dakota (70%, 2020). (Also, Mississippi voters overwhelmingly approved a medical cannabis initiative in 2020. The law was overturned in court due signature requirements that are impossible to comply with due to a reduction in Congressional districts.)

Penalizing Marijuana Possession with a Fine, Not Jail Time

- Currently, 31 states’ laws include provisions to prevent the jailing of people who possess small amounts of marijuana, at least for a first offense. Those states are: Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington. Most of these states instead impose a civil fine. In 18 of the states, marijuana is legal for adults 21 and older.

- In February 2014, Pew Research Center found that 76% of Americans believe people caught in possession of marijuana shouldn't be jailed as a result.

State Decriminalization Poll Results

State	Date/Polling Firm	% in Favor	Question Wording
Indiana	October 2018, Hoosier Survey	78%	"[I]f marijuana use is not legalized, then should people convicted of possessing small amounts serve jail time?" ("% in favor" is the percent answering "no")
Oklahoma	September 2013, Sooner Poll	57%	Support decriminalizing adults' possession of up to an ounce of marijuana so "they would receive a fine rather than be criminally prosecuted and face possible incarceration"
Texas	September 2013, Public Policy Polling	61%	Support making it a civil offense "to possess an ounce or less of marijuana for personal use, punishable by a fine of up to $100, but without jail time"

Replacing Marijuana Prohibition With Legalization and Regulation

- National polls, including by Pew Research Center, Gallup, and CNN, show that most Americans support legalization. In October 2020 and October 2021, Gallup found that a supermajority of Americans (68%) supported "making marijuana use legal" — more than double the level of support in 2000.

- Support for ending prohibition is nonpartisan. In 2021, Gallup found 83% support from Democrats, 71% support from independents, and 50% support from Republicans.
- Gallup's 2021 poll found that no age group opposed legalization, reporting 60% support from persons 55 and older, 70% support from individuals aged 35-54, and 77% support from those 18-34 years old.
- From 2017 to present, the public research firm Civiqs has surveyed more than 180,000 registered voters on legalization. As of May 23, 2021, it found 70% support nationwide and at least 50% support in every state, ranging from 50% in North Dakota to 81% in Washington and Oregon. The Washington Post published this map of Civiq's state-by-state poll results. Support has increased since then.

Support for legalizing marijuana by state

- Voters in states that have implemented legalization and regulation laws overwhelmingly view the laws as mostly or entirely a success. April 2020 YouGov surveys found 56% to 69% of voters in California, Colorado, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington viewed their state’s legalization laws as successful. In Maine — where legal sales only recently began in October 2020 under the 2016 law — a plurality of 47% viewed it as a success. (Alaska and Vermont also have legalization laws, but YouGov did not have sufficient sample size to show results.) In each state, no more than 20% of voters viewed the law as more of a failure than a success.
- Voters’ support for legalization has increased since the laws took effect. Civiq’s data shows 70% or greater support for keeping marijuana legal in all of the legalization states where sales legal have begun: Arizona, Alaska, California, Colorado, Illinois, Maine, Michigan, Nevada, Oregon, Vermont, and Washington.
